Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: The arguments filed have been considered but are not persuasive. Initially, the claim is not commensurate in scope with the invention described in the arguments, in that the claimed invention does not require the judgment means to cease judging at any point. With respect to the judgment means being integrated, the references disclose the features of claim 1, except for the judgment means being integrated. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the judgment means, since it has been held that forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art. Howard v. Detroit Stove Works, 150 U.S. 164 (1893).
